Double Mail Service

Started on Monday

As announced exclusively by us several weeks ago, the locals now carry mail, thus giving us four mails—two from the east and two from the west—each day. This service was inaugurated on Monday last and is a great convenience to business men and others. The local board of trade and the "advocate of the people's rights," have often tried to impress upon the authorities the necessity of a double mail service for the many prosperous towns between Medicine Hat and Cranbrook, and it is encouraging to note that our requirements in this connection are at last being realized. This shows that the C.P.R. is not such a bad corporation to do business with after all and is a further proof of its desire to meet the requirements of the people.

George Wins Suit

Against Howard

T. B. George, manager of the Blairmore branch of the Union Bank, has been successful in the action which he brought against Harry Howard, formerly proprietor of the Cosmopolitan hotel, for the sum of $1,700 as commission for selling the latter gentleman's hostelry. In addition to having to pay Mr. George the modest sum of $1,700, Mr. Howard has to pay all court charges in connection with same.

Three Big Days

For Blairmore

The Chapman Amusement Company is coming to Blairmore and will occupy the large grounds near the centre of town and immediately south of the railroad for three whole days—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. This company, whose headquarters are at New Westminster, B.C., is one of the biggest and best of its kind travelling in Western Canada. It carries five big shows, each of which gives two performances each day. Early in the afternoon a baloon ascent will be made by Professor Mills who has reached great heights in his dare-devil ascents during the past few months. This is a sight worth seeing and is absolutely free. The entire show is of an educational and amusing nature and is sure to interest the old as well as the young. A special feature for the latter will be the merry-go-round. The company guarantees a good time for all.

Two Miners Receive

Slight Injuries

About noon on Saturday last a slight accident occurred at the Blairmore mines which necessitated two timbermen, John Gates and James Rutherford, to "lay off" for two or three days. The two men were timbering the main entry when a small quantity of coal fell upon them. They were quickly given medical attendance and will soon be all right again.

A daily mail and passenger service between Canada and Newfoundland has been inaugurated.

Trinity church, New York, is worth $75,000,000, and is the richest Christian (?) church in the world.

Blairmore Solons Hold Another Short Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Blairmore town council held on Monday night last was noted for its brevity. There were present: Mayor Lyon, Councillors McLeod, Dutil, Chestnut and Sinclair. The last meeting was even shorter than the one held couple weeks ago, the minutes of which were read on Monday night last in just twenty-nine seconds.

Solicitor Moore wrote informing the council that it was necessary for that body to pass a by-law regarding the proposed fire hall site before Mr. Malcolm should be paid for the said property. The councillors agreed that the information given by the solicitor was not sufficient, whereupon Councillor Sinclair moved and Councillor McLeod seconded that the council adjourn until the following Monday evening and that the solicitor be asked to attend the adjourned meeting when he would be expected to give further advice on the matter.

Councillor Sinclair stated: "We have been waiting for nearly a month to have this matter settled and it is about time that this was disposed of so that we might proceed with other business. I would like to suggest that the mayor proceed with the appointment of board of investigation if he still thinks that any of the councillors are guilty of wrong doing. I am willing and most anxious to have things done in a fair and honorable way, and I most certainly believe that other councillors are the same."

Councillor Chestnut thought that it was a great pity that the work of the council could not be proceeded with. "This fire hall site seems to be in quite a mix-up," continued the councillor, "and it is high time that the matter was settled. We come here on our regular meeting nights, but the work is impeded because of the proposed fire hall site which we agreed to purchase several weeks ago and I do not see why it should not be settled without any further delay."

Councillor Dutil: "We do not seem to be very successful in getting light on the subject which is now under discussion. Several days ago we were the Attorney General for advice and he referred us to the town solicitor, and now the latter gentleman fails to give us the information asked for. I would suggest that the secretary try to get the solicitor on the telephone and ask him to come to the meeting."

Acting on the suggestion of the last speaker, Mayor Lyon instructed the secretary to call up the solicitor but it was learned that the legal light was out of town.

Councillor McLeod thought that if one lawyer was unable to give the desired information and to settle the matter in dispute that other legal authority be consulted and the question be settled as it should be. "We asked the solicitor to state what procedure should be taken by the councillors when the mayor refuses to execute their command and it does not seem to me," said the councillor,

Flyer Now Stops at Blairmore

The Canadian Pacific Railway have made Blairmore a stopping place for the flyer for passengers going to or coming from a distance, thus putting this town on a par with other towns in this neighborhood. This came into effect on Sunday last. But in view of the immense traffic to and from Blairmore this town should be made a regular stopping for the "flyer," the absolute necessity of which should be brought to bear upon the railway authorities. With this accomplished, Blairmore would have six trains each day.

Church Ladies' Busy

Day at Coleman

The Anglican Church Women's Auxiliary of Coleman will hold a sale of works, a supper and an entertainment in the opera house in that town on Wednesday next. The sale will commence at 4 o'clock in the afternoon when a large assortment of useful articles will be disposed of. At 5:30 to 8 p.m. the innerman will be given delectable edibles at moderate prices, and at 8:30 p.m. an enjoyable entertainment will commence. The proceeds will be used for church purposes.

Will Explain Situation At Frank to Rogers

In spite of the reports to the contrary, Frank has not moved and several hundred of its citizens are still issuing defiance to Turtle mountain which towers above them and which overlooks the town from the south. On Saturday evening a deputation, consisting of W. J. McGowan, J. H. Farmer, A. N. Mout, J. E. Woods and John Herron, proceeded to Regina to meet the Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works in the Dominion house, and other government officials and to lay before them a report of the situation at Frank and to impress upon the representatives of the government the dire necessity of immediate aid in the way of moving buildings from their present dangerous location to a place of safety at the east end of Blairmore.

The gentlemen met on Monday but as yet it is not known what action the government promises to take in the matter. It is the general impression among the Frank people, as well as among those who have visited the town recently and who understand the seriousness of the situation, that the federal government should come to the assistance of those who have property in danger and help the owners to move their buildings without any further delay. The gentlemen who went to Regina are expected to return about Friday evening or Saturday morning.

Louis Hill has succeeded his father as chairman of the G. N. directors' board.

R. Jones has returned to Coleman after spending the past eight months at Castor in the northern part of this province.

"that he has given us an answer to the question."

The above motion was then put and unanimously carried.

AN ODD MEETING

With One Who Had Been in a Different Position

By MILDRED LOUISE DODGE

The social world is a boiling pot. That which is under goes to the top and after whirling about awhile sinks again. The loss of fortune among the aristocrats of Europe produces disastrous effects on the losers. There is little or no hope of the recovery, and they must drop to a lower scale. They can't bear to live among people who have considered them far better than themselves.

There is now an American colony in every capital in Europe, and those who are financially able to entertain and be entertained have an easier time of it than the one man social circle presided over by royalty than any other. Naturally, for the reason that since we have no titles in America no rank is expected of us. Some years ago a wealthy American gentleman named Tracy spent a month in Rome. His wife and daughter, Henrietta, had always moved in the upper circles of America, and, having friends in the latter to introduce them, they soon found themselves in the swirls there. Henrietta Tracy was much sought after by Italians, who would have been glad to marry a beautiful American with a fortune. Her only object in accepting their attentions was a natural desire to see the world in Rome. One young man she fancied, but he was supposed to be perfectly independent financially and did not seem inclined to join the throng of her suitors.

But the lady was not sure that difference was the cause of his standing aloof, though she did not know. There are young men who are either too proud to enter into a competition for the hand of a girl pursued by fortune hunters or too sensitive to say anything to such. But this young man, Luigi Brandini, was not a pauper and no such motive could be attributed to him, though his estate was said to be involved in a law suit of many years standing.

Nevertheless Brandini showed Miss Tracy every attention and care, and indicated that he was likely to be a suitor. The last time she saw him at a social function was a ball given at the Quirinal palace, where he was her partner more than once during the evening. He seemed gloomy, and Miss Tracy could not help wondering if her departure, which was to take place the next day, had anything to do with his depression. When he was leaving the palace the young man bid her goodnight and goodbye with a far-away look in his eyes that boded some impending calamity.

That was the last the Tracy saw of Brandini for some time. From then they went to Berlin, thence to London and finally sailed from England to America.

Two years passed. One day Miss Tracy entered a restaurant in an American city with a party of friends for luncheon. When they were seated a waiter advanced with a napkin on his arm to serve them. Looking up at him Miss Tracy met his eye. The hot blood rushed to his cheeks and an expression of mingled pain and mortification showed itself in every feature of his face. The man recognized her as she recognized him. He was Luigi Brandini.

He turned and went away, and she saw him no more. Presently another waiter came and took the party's orders. It is needless to say that the luncheon had been spoiled for Miss Tracy. The face of one who had last seen as a guest in the Quirinal palace in Rome changed to a waiter in an American restaurant was appalling.

Being ignorant of what had caused this downward course in the social scale on the part of Brandini, she wrote a friend who made Rome her residence and who had recently come to America for a visit. In reply she was informed that soon after her departure from Italy an important suit of many years standing between Luigi Brandini and a cousin had been decided in the court of last appeal against Brandini and made him a pauper. He had disappeared from Rome, and no one knew where he had gone. Brandini had it that he had enlisted in the French foreign legion; that he had committed suicide; that a bandit who was terrorizing a province had taken the name of Catania was Brandini. For awhile these wild rumors went from month to month; then the poor man was forgotten by the social world as completely as if an ocean had closed over him.

Miss Tracy read the information imparted, and her sympathies went out all the more to her former acquaintance, especially at learning that his fall was not attended with disgrace. It was hard for her to understand that helplessness under which gentlemen of Europe who were not born to work experience when they are thrown out upon the world. It does not exist certainly not to so great an extent in America.

What could she do for Brandini? Nothing. The pride which he caused him to flee from such help as he might have received from his friends would prevent his accepting assistance from a woman he had known in that exclusive circle. One of the unseen abysses that beset the way of those who tread rosy paths had been suddenly exposed to her vision.

The only effort Miss Tracy felt herself in a position to make for Brandini's behalf was to inform her father of her meeting with the Italian with a view to learning if anything could be done for him. Mr. Tracy was disposed to help one who had contributed to his and his daughter's pleasure in a foreign land. He went to the restaurant where Henrietta had seen Brandini, described him to the proprietor and was told that a man answering that description had left his service on the day Miss Tracy had met Brandini. The proprietor did not know where he had gone. That ended the matter for the time being and possibly for ever.

But Fate, who delights in arranging all sorts of complications for us, was working the matter in his own peculiar fashion. Many a man's career has been determined by some slight accident such as missing a train, falling into a river or running up against some one turning a corner. In this case the agent through which fate worked was a newspaper. Some eighteen months after Miss Tracy's meeting with Brandini in a restaurant she advertised for a chauffeur. Receiving several replies, she appointed a day and an hour when the applicants for the position might present themselves for inspection. When she entered the room where they were assembled and cast her eye over them who should she see among the number but Luigi Brandini. His mortification was apparent in his face. He made a movement to retire, but changed his mind. It was too late.

Miss Tracy questioned the men one after another, dismissing them as soon as examined until she came to Brandini. The two looked at each other. Brandini looking as if he would like to escape. Miss Tracy looked as if she would like to prevent him from doing so.

For a moment she hesitated whether to speak to him as a former friend or as an applicant for the position of chauffeur. She decided on the latter course.

"Your name?" she asked. "Giovanni Riccardone."

"What name have you have you had in running automobiles?"

"None whatever, signora. I am sure I would not suit you. I should not care to answer your advertisement."

"Nevertheless I like your appearance and think that, after a little practice, you will be able to drive my auto very well. You are excellent."

"Pardon me, signora. I am quite sure I should not be able to do it. He stopped, bowed his head and fixed his eyes on the floor."

"Signor Brandini," said the lady, "you are among friends."

"There was no reply to this. He did not even raise his eyes."

"You Roman," she continued, "were very kind to us when we were in Italy. My father, my mother, my very dearest friends were among others for a very pleasant sojourn in your Italian capital. Perhaps my father may be able to help you to throw a switch to the right side and place you on the main track."

"Signora, you are apt at condensing the expression of ideas."

He acceded to her request, and she secured a promise from him to answer any communication that might be sent to him. Then she permitted him to depart.

She Never Looked Tired.

Kitty Gordon, the actress, has been called "the woman who never looks tired." To explain her secret, "Just take a vacation every two or three weeks," she advises with a praiseworthy little smile, playing about her mouth, as though she was well aware of the reply she would receive. But before one has opportunity to answer she adds quickly: "Yet it's not nearly so difficult as it sounds. By a vacation I mean a whole day's rest—luxurious rest. Just go away alone where you don't see a soul you know and take a sunny, warm room where you can sleep. If you can afford it, take along bags of gorgeous, sweet odored flowers. If you cannot, then a bit of your favorite perfume and one or two flowers. But forever you must have. There is nothing in all the world so restful or so wonderfully soothing. Then read your favorite poems, browse in them, play, sleep. Forget you ever had a worry. If your clothes hamper you, cast them off and dress in a simple little robe de nuit. Simply relax every strained little muscle in your face and body."

"If you are fortunate enough, call in several little folks; be young again with them. When they want you to hide them, excuse them and then, if you have to tip it over. It will take years from your age."

"I never fail to take this 'rest cure' (and cure) every other Sunday. My stage work won't allow me to take them often. And, oddly, I never go into the country for my rest. I go to the city. There is too much temptation to go out of doors and romp in the country, and the result is that you don't allow yourself the delightful opportunity to relax that you desire. Then, too, in the city, away up in your apartment, you are isolated if you desire to be. You have had to leave with the bellboy that you are 'out,' and not a soul knows otherwise. In the country every one knows whether you are in or out."

VISIONS OF GHOSTS.

They Seem to Come to About One Person in Every Ten.

The modern theory of ghosts insists that invariably, while they are real ghosts and not the spurious product of credulity and deception, they are distinctly subjective in character and exist only by virtue of conditions permitting their creation in the mind of the person or persons seeing them. In other words, a real ghost is never an objective phenomenon, like a tree or a house. As a psychologist would say, it is always "a percept having no basis in external reality." Less learnedly, it is always "a case of 'seeing things where they ain't.' That is to say, it is a hallucination.

It has been conclusively demonstrated that one person out of every ten has experienced at least one hallucination at some time in his or her life.

Proof of this results chiefly from the remarkable record of hallucinations originated more than twenty years ago at the international congress of psychology and simultaneously carried on principally by members of the Psychological Research—in the United States, England, France, Germany and other countries. To thousands of persons the question was asked: "Have you ever, when believing yourself to be completely awake, had a vivid impression of seeing or being touched by a living being or thing—no object or object of feeling a voice, which impression, so far as you could discover, was not due to any external physical cause?" Of the 27,339 replies received to this question no fewer than 3,206 were in the affirmative—Hampson's Magazine.

WEATHER SIGNS.

Some Rules That Help in Reading the Clouds and Winds.

The following formula of weather signs adopted by the Farmers' Club of the American Institute some years ago, and it has been found to give satisfaction.

When the temperature falls suddenly there is a storm forming south of you. When the temperature rises suddenly there is a storm forming north of you. The wind that blows from a region of fair weather toward a point where a storm is forming.

Cirrus clouds always move from a region where a storm is in progress to one of fair weather. Cumulus clouds always come from a region where a storm is forming. When cirrus clouds are moving rapidly from the north or northeast, no matter how cold it is, there will be rain within twenty-four hours. When cirrus clouds are moving rapidly from the south or southwest, there will be a hailstorm on the morrow. If it is in summer, and if it is in the winter, there will be snow.

The wind which blows about a storm to a circle. When it blows from the north or northeast, it is a sign of rain. The wind which blows from the south or southwest, it is a sign of rain. The wind which blows from the east or west, it is a sign of rain.

Whenever heavy white frost is falling from a storm forming within 1,000 miles of you, it is a sign of rain. Whenever heavy white frost is falling from a storm forming within 1,000 miles of you, it is a sign of rain.

JUICE OF THE POPPY.

The Flowers Are Lanced to Obtain the Crude Opium.

It is probable that few owners of flower beds are aware that the poppies they cultivate purely for ornamental will, if treated correctly, produce opium. When the flower petals have fallen, leaving the seed capsule bare, there will exist in an incision made in that body, a sticky juice. This juice is opium. It varies in certain chemical qualities according to the country where it is cultivated and the variety of plant wherefrom it is produced.

Although the poppy will grow in almost any climate, it is in the east it is most successfully cultivated. When the land has been plowed and harrowed the poppy seed is sown, about six pounds of seed being sufficient for one-third of an acre. Just as soon as it begins to germinate, about a week after sowing in certain localities, the plants are divided by furrows into rectangular beds about eight feet in length by four in breadth. These channels are employed for irrigation, as the plants need a constant watering, sometimes even until the time of maturity.

About two months and a half after germination the flower appears, and its question marks are greatly removed on the third day after their expansion, to be matted together with the leaves destined to form the outer shell of the capsule or calyx. These after about eight or ten days the capsules are lanced—at night—and the juice which has exuded from the incisions is scraped off in 27,339 replies received to this question no fewer than 3,206 were in the affirmative—Hampson's Magazine.

THE NEW LINGERIE.

Slim Lines the Thing in Modish Underwear.

THE BODICE CORSET COVER.

Pictured in the new bodice corset cover, which is a boon to the stout woman. It is very much on the order of a brassiere, as it is perfectly fitted to the figure and boxed in several places.

Another advantage of this corset cover is that it is attached to the petticoat, giving a smooth hip line. The materials used are valencien lace and the sheers of tucked batiste. Pink satin ribbon ties the cover at the shoulders and is run through the banding.

STORY IS FABULOUS AND MAY DELAY MATTERS AT FRANK

Just as the citizens of Frank were presenting their case to the government and asking them for financial aid in moving the buildings in the dangerous zone to a place of safety on the new property, which is about half a mile west of the present business section, along comes the Lethbridge Daily Herald with the ill-considered statement that "Frank has moved."

To remove any false impression which our exchange may have made at this critical moment, we might say that Frank has not moved. Some of the citizens of Frank cannot move their buildings without financial assistance, and it was with the hope of bringing about this end that a deputation was sent to Regina on Saturday evening to meet the Minister of Public Works and other members of the Dominion cabinet.

Following is some of the bunkum which the Lethbridge Daily Herald got off on its readers on Saturday last:

"Frank town is now nearly all moved to the new site."

The town that moves is Frank, but it will have to drop that cognomen, at least for a few years. For Frank has moved.

To show however that they didn't much care for the threats of the big fellow with the slow name, they moved just out of the danger zone.

The moving process has been going on for some time, and in another week or so the big majority of citizens will lie down to rest in security in their new homes a mile west of the old slide. All the main stores have gone, and are now doing business in their new stands. The hotels were the last to move.

The absurdity of the Herald's remarks is shown when we say that not one building has been moved from its old position, neither has any business been established nor has any building been erected on the new property. Statements such as those made by the Herald would greatly impede the work of the committee appointed to interview the leaders of the Provincial and Dominion governments with a view to acquire assistance in moving the dwellings and other buildings away from the dangerous zone of Turtle mountain.

Some people wonder why the clergymen make large deposits in the banks during the month of June. That's easy to explain. This is the month of blushing brides.

The department of mines at Ottawa says that the coal areas which are now being developed in Canada will be exhausted in six thousand years from now. Well, don't worry. By that time the large coal properties at the South Forks may be tapped by a railroad.

WHEN DID NEWFOUNDLAND SECEDE FROM ENGLAND?

Vancouver News-Advertiser: Just as the nursery is the best school for parents, so Canada, as England's eldest child, is bound, as soon as she begins to make original remarks, to be a source of inspiration, along with some anxiety and some entertainment also, to England, her aged mother, and thereby to influence the whole continent of Europe.

Happenings in and Around Blairmore

J. H. Farmer left on Saturday for Regina. He will return about the end of the week.

A large number of the local Oddfellows attended memorial service at Colton on Sunday last.

J. J. Atherton, editor of the "Coleman Bulletin," paid a visit to Blairmore on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Rainlow, representing the Consolidated Stationery Co. of Winnipeg, was in town on Saturday last.

Rev. J. F. Hunter returned from Edmonton on Saturday last after attending the Baptist convention in that city.

J. W. Gresham, who was a delegate to the Baptist convention held at Edmonton last week, returned to town on Saturday.

E. Pence Lyon and G. Murr, of the Coleman hotel, spent Saturday afternoon manuevering through our industrial avenues.

Mr. Donnelly, of Donnelly, Watson & Brown, wholesale confectioners of Calgary, was soliciting orders for his firm here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wolstenholme and child have arrived from Vancouver and will spend several weeks in this neighborhood before returning west.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Hinds, of Stillwater, Minn., are in town visiting their sons, Ernest and Frank. They intend to remain in Blairmore for several weeks.

Reginald B. Balder, formerly with the Toronto Type Foundry Co., but now with the John Martin Paper Co., Winnipeg, passed through to Fernie on Tuesday.

George Young, formerly of this town but now residing at Lethbridge, came to Blairmore on Monday evening and returned home again the following evening.

C. McN. O'Brien, M.P.P., was in town on Friday evening last and gave an address on Socialism in the open air near the corner of Victoria street and Sixth avenue. Quite a number heard the oration.

E. L. Crane, of the mechanical department of this paper, returned from Nacled Monday morning, where he had been looking over his ranching interests. He reports crops looking splendid and hopes this year to have bumper returns.

Miss M. Sonstrum, manager at the local telephone exchange, intends to leave on Saturday on a three months' holiday, visiting Calgary, Banff, Edmonton and then going west where she will spend some time with friends at New Westminster, Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle.

There was no service in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday morning last as a result of the preacher's failure to connect with the train. Mr. Wycherly came to the rescue later in the day and held down the fort in the evening.

Miss Louise Sonstrum resigned her position at the telephone exchange and left on Saturday for Calgary where she will reside in future. Her many friends here were sorry to see her leave this place and they wish her success as she enters upon a larger sphere of usefulness.

was in town this week preparing the way for his company which will be in Blairmore on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, giving performances on the grounds between Sixth and Seventh avenues, just south of the C.P.R. track. See further particulars elsewhere in this issue.

The second annual ball of the Blairmore tennis club was held in the local opera house on Friday evening last and was attended by many tennis enthusiasts and their friends. One very noticeable feature about this event was that there were fully twenty more ladies than men present. This is very singular for any of the towns in The Pass where the male population is in the lead by more than two-thirds over the fairer sex. A well-laxed floor enabled the dancers to glide along easily and with great delight to the strains of the Crawford orchestra. The building was suitably decorated with nets, rackets and other tennis paraphernalia while many of the gentlemen wore tennis suits. A number of spectators congregated in the balcony and passed complimentary remarks upon the event in progress before their penetrating gaze.

Sanatorium Busy Place These Days

Because many people know a good thing when they see it is why the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium is being so well patronized. Everything is being done for the convenience of the guests who are increasing in numbers as the days go by. On Saturday evening and all day Sunday the Macleod orchestra was in attendance at that institution and delighted the guests with high-class and appropriate music. From Saturday to Monday the Crows' Nest Pass Peddlers held their first annual banquet at the Sanatorium and everyone present was highly pleased with the way the hotel people managed the affair. This hostelry is increasing in popularity and it continues at its present rate, a larger building will soon be needed to cope with the situation.
